FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1895.

The money market was steady, with a moderate increase in foreign trade. Local securities were more active and strongest. Stocks were exchanged very quietly on the Board of Trade. Wheat was quiet and nearly steady. Sunday in Wall street was generally dull owing to good crop reports from the West, but under reviews this caused by the reported failure in Boston.—The Chicago produce markets were dull, with a weaker report of hogs, and prospects of continued weakness in connection with the movement of grain. An unusual with Wednesday sale was also noted in grain futures, but Thursday's sales were heavier. Provisions were dull and weak.
